WASHINGTON CITY

What Senator Davis Desires.

WASHINGTON, Dec [illegible] dressing the senate [illegible] day is drawing [illegible] chamber [illegible] north [illegible] When the [illegible] tell [illegible] close of [illegible] will [illegible] glory that will [illegible] this experiment of republican government is [illegible] may [illegible] forbearance [illegible] ated by the patriotism of our father [illegible] be re[illegible] vived and imitated. In no other way can the more perfect union which their inspired wisdom [illegible] out of a [illegible] federation [illegible] as a shining light of higher civilization and as a refuge of the oppressed from all lands.

Proposed Chinese Legislation.

WASHINGTON, Dec 6.—General Miller yesterday introduced in the senate his bill to carry the Chinese treaty into effect. It was ordered to be printed and laid on the table to await action on committees when it will be referred to the committee on foreign relations.

Senator Grover also introduced a bill to-day to restrict Chinese immigration. His bill is a copy of the vetoed fifteen passenger bill except in allowing certain classes of Chinese to come here, the exceptions being similar to those of Miller's bill ordered printed.

The Cabinet.

Secretary Hunt will retain his cabinet position and James will remain until the end of the present fiscal year. It is reported to-night that Kirkwood has also been enjoined by the president that he desires him to remain. Frelinghuysen and Brewster are to be secretary of state and attorney general, and the treasury having been filled, this makes up the compliment of the cabinet. It is evident republicans are determined to push the matter of admission of Southern Dakota into the union. Senators Windom and Saunders have introduced bills for this purpose, both being substantially the same. Saunders is chairman of the committee on territories and all bills of this character will go into his hands. The democrats intend to fight the measure, and chances are against them.

Some Western Bills.

Senator Miller to-day introduced three bills "by request." One directs accounting officers of the treasury to examine all unpaid accounts heretofore filed in the departments of services rendered and supplies furnished under direction of the Indian bureau or its agents, and in cases where said services and supplies are found to have actually been applied to the benefit of the Indians, to report to congress the balances equitably due on said account, notwithstanding no sufficient appropriations existed to pay them. The second bill provides that fees be allowed to registers and receivers for reducing testimony to writing but shall not be taken into account in determining their maximum compensation, and that such fees deposited in the treasury since July 1, 1877, shall be reimbursed to them.

Senator Teller introduced the well known bill for the payment of some $500,000 to Ben Holladay for losses sustained by Indian depredations while performing overland mail service.

Senator Grover to-day reintroduced his bill of the last congress to reimburse to the state of Oregon $131,0[illegible] for expenditures during the Modoc war.

A Government for Alaska.

Times Washington correspondent says a determined effort will be made at this session of congress to provide for Alaska some form of government. It is probable that all that is needed for Alaska would have been given by the last congress if those who claimed to represent residents of that country had been reasonably moderate in their requests. Alaska should have courts of justice and record. These can easily be supplied, but it would be absurd to establish in that region—where there are less than [illegible]00 white residents—a costly and elaborate system of territorial government, suited as provided in the bill introduced by Senator Butler last winter. The gentleman who has for three years asked congress to provide for Alaska is M S Ball, a Virginian, who was not long ago collector of customs in Alaska. It was understood that the Alaska bill just mentioned had been inspired by him. Ball is already before the present congress and he comes now in the guise of a delegate, whose petition is presented in the senate, and with this petition Ball offers proofs of his election as delegate from Alaska, and asks that he shall be acknowledged and admitted to the house of representatives like delegates of legally organized western territories. It is shown in this petition that a mass meeting, although the number of those attending could hardly warrant the use of the name, was held in Harrisburg, Alaska, January 4, 1881, and in response to a call issued by this meeting, residents of Southeastern Alaska met in primary assembly in their several settlements and elected delegates to a general convention. This convention was held on Aug 16, 1881, and it provided a general election to be held on Sept 5th. At this election only 304 votes were cast, of which Ball received 2[illegible]. Upon the strength of this election he now asks admission to the house as a territorial delegate. Those who ask that a complete and very expensive system of territorial government shall be set up in Alaska, such as was contemplated in the Butler bill, only delay thereby the bestowal upon that country of simple provisions which are really needed. Ball would undoubtedly be of great service to his friends in Alaska. He would not ask so much more than Alaska can expect to receive. Why Ball should petition the senate to give him admission to the house as delegate is something that it would be difficult to explain.

Don't Want Them.

U S Treasurer Gilfillan informed a correspondent who had applied to him for information on the subject of confederate state notes that the U S government has never made an offer for such currency, and does not desire any.

Returned.

Postmaster General James and party returned to-night from a southern tour.

Will Support Edmunds.

Republican senators in caucus have agreed to support Edmunds' resolution continuing the senate committees, and it was found that they had numerical strength to adopt it even if Davis votes with the democrats.

A Good Thing.

The Christiancy case has been stopped by the disappearance of some witnesses of Mrs Christiancy's.

A Sensible Conclusion.

Democratic caucus this A M decided not to make a struggle for equal division of senate committees, but leave the whole to the generous sense and fair dealing of the republicans.

Senatorial Notes.

Senator David Davis stated positively to-night that he would not vote to turn out any of the present officers or employes of the senate.

Senator Saunders to-day introduced a bill to extend the northern boundary of Nebraska to take in 600,000 acres of Dakota.

Expected Nominations.

It is stated the president will send the names of Frelinghuysen and Brewster for secretary of state and attorney general respectively, to-morrow. Other cabinet nominations will be made later.

Meeting of the Union League Called.

Gen Negley, president of the national council of the Union League of America has called a general meeting of the council in Philadelphia on the 14th of December.

A Copy of Blaine's Bill.

The bill introduced by Kellogg in the senate for the establishment of a United States ocean mail service and revival of foreign commerce in American steamships is a copy of the bill introduced in July last by Secretary Blaine.

Senator Davis Indignant.

When referring to his acceptance of the position of president of the senate, in his speech, Davis manifested considerable indignation in alluding to various newspaper insinuations that he had sold himself to the republicans. He was very emphatic in his assertion that not a single word tending to commit himself to republicans had passed between him and them as to his acceptance of the position.

An Artist out of Luck.

VIENNA, Dec 7.—Officers have surprised a supposed Russian spy sketching the fortress at Cracow. Plans of the fortress were found upon him.

"America," says an Englishman, "is a country where a man's statement is not worth two cents unless backed up with an offer to bet you $10."

THE GUITEAU TRIAL.

All the Ground for the Defense Closed.

PROSECUTION OPENS WITH REBUTTAL TESTIMONY

The Experts do not Consider Guiteau Insane. He Still Indulges in Invectives—Judge, Counsel and Witnesses Fall Into Remonstrance

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

WASHINGTON, Dec [illegible] [illegible] was unusually [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] A [illegible] [illegible] understood why he was [illegible]

Scoville told [illegible] asked whether the [illegible] would not have dis[illegible] of the country. In [illegible] Davis had spoken [illegible] that point [illegible] Randall till [illegible]

Guiteau said he wanted experts to decide whether it was insanity or [illegible] the deity.

Dr Kemp [illegible], editor of the Chicago Medical [illegible], testified that he believed the prisoner [illegible]. He was examined at length by Davidge. He [illegible] stated that [illegible] sworn [illegible] that the prisoner's father was insane. Guiteau said, "we will show by the report he was insane." Everybody knew he was insane. Everybody knows he was nearly cracked on religion though a good man.

Witness believed in moral insanity in certain rare cases rendering a man irresponsible. He based Guiteau's insanity on hereditary taint, impairment of judgment and an inspiration which also in [illegible] a motive for his course. When a man committed a crime under delusion and then acted precisely as a criminal would do, it would be presumptive evidence against insanity.

Guiteau (excitedly)—"Nothing of that kind in this case (Angrily to Davidge)—"You're going too fast in this matter. We want facts, not your judgment."

The witness had stated one thing right—the Lord in acts inspiration and then lets the man use his own judgment to work it out. That's just my case. That's the way I got my inspiration. The Lord don't employ fools to do his work. He gets the best material.

Davidge then put a hypothetical case using a term like "a common vulgar criminal."

Guiteau turned to Davidge and with an immense superiority said: "There's nothing vulgar about this case. It's all high toned." [Laughter, quickly suppressed by the court.]

Guiteau suddenly interrupted the examination and despite Scoville's efforts to restrain him broke out in a severe denunciation of his late wife, saying he had just noticed a discourse from her which was full of misstatements, and if she came into court to testify against him he would show her up. He rattled on some minutes, but finally quieted down.

Witness was about to be dismissed when Guiteau detained him and said, with an air of great seriousness: "Doctor, I want to ask you where hereditary nimbus of the brain exists, won't a man show it whenever there is cause."

Witness responded in the affirmative.

"That will do," said Guiteau with the air of a lawyer who had made a decided point. Recess.

Richard J Hinton, editor of the Washington Gazette, had seen the prisoner at the republican headquarters in New York. He thought him egotistical and exceedingly ill balanced. His speech was a ridiculous, disjointed affair.

Guiteau (excitedly)—It was nothing of the kind. You don't know what you are talking about. The best men of the country indorsed it.

Witness resumed: The prisoner got to be a perfect nuisance about the committee rooms.

Guiteau—You were a nuisance. I'd rather be hung as a man than acquitted as a fool and won't have any more of this kind of evidence.

Witness said he was the laughing stock as far as he could see.

Guiteau (violently to Scoville)—If you put any more of these cranky fellows on the stand I'll square you again. It was a great piece of impudence on your part to put Judge Davis on the stand without consulting me. I am no fool and I won't allow you to make me out one.

Dr Charles Nichols of the Bloomington, Ill., asylum, said if the evidence to which I have listened is correct, I should say Guiteau is insane.

Dr Folsom of Boston made the same answer to a similar hypothetical case stated by Scoville.

Dr Wm Godding of the government insane asylum, Dr James H McBride of Milwaukee, and Dr Channing of Brookline, Mass, agreed in the same opinion.

Dr Theodore M Fisher said if confined to the hypothetical case he would say Guiteau was insane, but would dislike to be so confined. Prosecution informed him they would want him as a witness.

Scoville announced he had only two or three more witnesses before closing his case.

Guiteau here demanded subpoenas for Conkling, Grant, Jewell and others and made an incoherent harangue which seemed to please his counsel vastly.

Judge Cox finally silenced him.

Scoville read from Guiteau's book "Truth" until adjournment.

Scoville will this afternoon call on the president and try to get him to assent to appear.

Guiteau says he had interviews with Arthur, and it is known has written the president several letters, which defense want to have go on record.

WASHINGTON, Dec 6.—Scoville called Gorham, editor of the Washington Republican, but he did not respond.

C B Farwell of Chicago, testified as to the republican party before Garfield was shot.

Judge Porter objected to this kind of evidence.

Witness testified that Guiteau applied to him for $200,000 to purchase the Inter Ocean, promising to make him (Farwell) president of the United States.

Guiteau—That's false. I never asked him to invest money, but he said he had $100,000 in the Inter Ocean, and wouldn't put in any more.

Witness continued—In March Guiteau asked him to sign a petition for the Paris consulship. Never thought prisoner sane.

Being asked if he believed the prisoner could distinguish between right and wrong, Scoville and Guiteau objected strenuously, and Scoville made a long argument. Judge Cox allowed the question and witness said he thought there were grades of insanity, and didn't think the prisoner so insane but he could distinguish between right and wrong.

Scoville desired to note exceptions.

Guiteau again broke in excitedly, "I want this understood right here, I will put a stop to all this irrelevant nonsense. I acted from inspiration."

Judge Cox—Well that will do prisoner. You have said that many times, and you must not interrupt the court again.

Gorham took the stand and discussion ensued between counsel upon the form of question in which Guiteau insisted on taking part. Turning to Scoville, he said, "You are getting a little cracked yourself on this subject. I won't have your line of defense. It's altogether too narrow."

Gorham was told to step down when Guiteau shouted: "Come back, Mr Gorham. I want to ask you a few questions. I want you to state whether you did not write and publish in last April, May and June a great many bitter articles denouncing the president for wrecking the republican party."

Gorham—I decline to answer that question unless ordered by court. The files of the Republican speak for themselves.

Judge Cox—You can produce files Mr prisoner, but you cannot compel witness to state what they contain.

Guiteau—Very well Mr Gorham, I shall have you on the stand later with your files. I propose to show how your paper denounced the president for disrupting the republican party.

Guiteau, at Scoville's suggestion, then read a chapter from his book "Truth," which set forth the trials and teachings of St Paul, explaining as he read: "That's my case exactly," said Guiteau, "that's just it. I tried to preach the gospel."

Shortly after the prisoner became involved in an angry altercation with Scoville in course of which he became very violent and denounced him as no politician and no lawyer. "You insinuated yourself upon defense just because you happened to be my brother in law," said Guiteau.

Judge Porter undertook to address the court when Guiteau shouted imperiously: "Now you just keep quiet, Mr Judge Porter, you are altogether too talkative this morning."

Scoville stated that he desired to have the president testify in the case.

Guiteau interrupting—Yes and Conkling and the rest of my political friends. Scoville here takes altogether too narrow a view in this case.

Scoville, continuing, said he had made every effort to secure the president's attendance but without success. It was absolutely essential to obtain his testimony.

After some discussion, counsel for prosecution agreed to allow Scoville to prepare interrogatories to be submitted to the president and allow his evidence in this form to be put in later.

Scoville said with this exception defense had concluded.

Guiteau excitedly—I want that order signed, judge.

Judge Cox—I fail to see the necessity for summoning the witnesses you have named and shall therefore refuse the order, Mr Prisoner.

Guiteau—Then I note an exception. Reporter, put that down.

Scoville then produced Guiteau's book "Truth" which had been put in evidence but not read to the jury.

Guiteau—Scoville, you read like a school boy. You don't put any spirit in it. Let me read it.

Guiteau then began reading. He apologized to the audience by way of preface, by saying: "Ladies and gentlemen, I have not had any practice for so long that my voice may be a little husky. I will however do the best I can. I hope you will give your attention. You will find some very interesting reading."

Confusion ensued in the rear of the court room which greatly annoyed Guiteau and he appealed [illegible] to the judge saying: "I must have order. I cannot be heard." Then turning partly round said: "If any one wants to go out let them go, but now, but you must keep quiet." Thirty minutes were occupied in reading, when the [illegible] arrived.

Robinson thinks that work will be resumed this month and the line will be reached during the next summer. From W B Moorley, chief engineer of the Sonora road, who has just returned from El Paso, Texas, it is learned that the Mexican Central laid 17 miles south from El Paso. There are 900 men and 500 teams grading distributed over 100 miles of road. The Mexican Central is meeting with the same trouble with the Mexican government which has harrassed the Sonora road. The company has plenty of material at El Paso.

PRE-HISTORIC MAN

Prof. H W Haynes on the Antiquity of the Human Race.

[New York Times of Nov 16.]

At the meeting of the Long Island Historical Society of Brooklyn last evening, the Rev R S Storrs, the president, occupied the chair and introduced as the lecturer the eminent archaeologist Prof Henry W Haynes of Boston. The subject of the lecture was "The Fossil Man," and Prof Haynes delivered an elaborate scientific discourse, in which he traced the [illegible] of pre-historic archeology from its foundation as a science to the present day. The devotees of the science he said are industrious and energetic and, although it is but a quarter of a century old, nine international congresses have already been held and the number of laborers in the vast field opened by pre-historic archeology is steadily increasing. Certain questions of great moment have already been settled while some are still unsolved. The most important result thus far reached is the establishment of the truth of the great antiquity of man. The ancients were firm in the belief in the antiquity of man and his gradual development from an almost bestial condition. In the Middle Ages, the superstitious era of christianity held full sway over the minds of men, the conclusions of the ancients were ignored and the life of the human race was placed at about 6000 years. Now science has taken the matter in hand and the theory of the ancients has been proved to be the correct one.

Prof Haynes said that he used the word "fossil" in its literal sense, and by the "fossil man" meant man contemporary with animals now extinct and about which history, and even tradition is silent. In the deposits of the quarternary period of geology, side by side with the bones of the cave bear and other pre historic animals, have been found the bones of man. It is true that they have been discovered but few cases as yet, but the fact that they are found at all shows that man did exist in that far off period. Implements of man's fabrication have been found very often, and these alone would be sufficient evidence of his antiquity.

The remains thus far discovered show a cardinal development of no mean order, and brain structure scarcely inferior to that of the human race. Two types of the pre-historic man have already been found having skulls of a long and skulls of a round shape, and these two forms are common to day. Three different races of pre-historic man have also been placed in Western Europe by the explorations of archeologists, one each in Germany, France and Belgium. Discoveries either of bones or implements in the deposits of the quatenary period have been made in England, Germany, France, Austria, Spain, Portugal, Belgium, and in this country in the valley of the Delaware. The professor himself found several implements, undoubtedly fashioned by pre historic man, in Egypt, in the winter of 1878.

The duration of the quaternary period and the probability of the existence of the fossil remains of man in the tertiary deposits, are still unsolved problems. Science cannot yet say how long man has existed on the earth, or whether the quaternary period during which it is certain that he was in existence continued for 20,000 to 400,000 years. In any event, we know that man lived prior to the great flood that marked the glacial period, and that is a very respectable antiquity. Written history so comes to reinforce archeology in carrying the antiquity of man far beyond the 6000 years which was so long accepted as the term of the existence of the race. We have records in stone from the dynasty of one of the Pharaohs who reigned over 4000 years before Christ. This carries us back 6000 years. But now we find in Egypt a civilized nation, versed in the arts and sciences and a new written language of their own. How much further back must we go to estimate the time required to perfect this written language? The professor spoke at some length in regard to the explorations of archeologists, upon the results of which their conclusions were based, and upon concluding, was tendered the thanks of the society.

Good Record for the German Masses.

[New York Times.]

The German nationality, considering its large numbers in this city, presents one of the best records on the police reports. It will be well for all temperance reformers to weigh this well. In crimes of violence the American born seem to lead. Thus, in burglary Americans are 636, Irish 51 and Germans only 29; in assault and battery Americans are 1121, Irish 740 and Germans 283. It should be remembered, however, that the so called "Americans" on these lists are nine out of ten the children of foreign parents. In crimes against property the American born lead, and the Germans stand equally well. Thus, in petit larceny, Americans are 1[illegible]41, Irish 508, and Germans 1[illegible]; in grand larceny Americans are 490, Irish 110, and Germans only 40. The domestic Teuton shows also his home-loving habits by affording only 137 vagrants for the police, while the Irish contribute 1022 and American born 21[illegible]8. In violations of the sanitary code, the Germans show their national doggedness in adhering to bad habits and lead all nationalities, being 159 against 17 of the Irish and 46 Americans. In violation of the excise law they also stand high, being [illegible]35 against 315 of the Irish and 190 from the Americans. In insanity too the Germans have an unfortunately high ratio, being 142 to 190 of the Irish and 278 Americans. New York is one of the largest German cities in the world. These facts from the records of crime speak well for the good conduct of the great masses of its German poor.

Ingersoll Clutches the Bible to Save his Case.

[Peck's Sun.]

The course of Ingersoll in reading extracts from the Bible to the jury in the star route case about forgiving us our debts, and doing unto others as ye would that they should do unto you, etc., is severely condemned. The jury being Christians could not consistently go back on the Bible, but Mr. Ingersoll should not have taken such an advantage of them. He should have confined himself to the low cyon [illegible] though his clients were sent to the penitentiary. Ingersoll has got the star routers clear and yet he believes there is no hell. It don't look reasonable.

CONGRESSIONAL.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, Dec [illegible] 1881.

In senate [illegible] appointed a committee [illegible] the committee report [illegible] to communicate with [illegible] [illegible] granting franking privilege to [illegible]

[illegible] to prevent ex[illegible] in public service and bribery [illegible]

[illegible] Beck, Sherman and Plumb presented petitions [illegible] railroads [illegible] equitable.

Miller of California for territorial government of southern Alaska.

Saunders for the admission of Dakota as a state.

[illegible] establishing the territory of North Dakota.

Kellogg introduced a bill for the ocean mail service and the revival of foreign commerce in American steamers authorizing mail service between New Orleans and Mexican ports, between the United States and Brazil and subsidizing the construction of a ship canal from New Orleans to the Gulf of Mexico.

Cameron of Pennsylvania offered a resolution that it is inexpedient to reduce revenue by abolishing existing internal revenue taxes except those on high wines and distilled spirits. Laid on the table.

Beck submitted the following:

WHEREAS, The constitution of the United States provides that in case of the removal of a president from office or of his death, resignation or inability to discharge the duties of said office the same shall devolve upon the vice president, and that congress may by law provide for the case of removal by death, resignation or inability, both of president and vice president, declaring what officer shall then act as president, and each officer shall act accordingly until disability be removed or president shall be elected; and

WHEREAS, It greatly concerns the peace of the country, and perhaps the very existence of the government, that laws enacted by congress in pursuance of that provision of the constitution should be so comprehensive as to provide for every vacancy that can occur in the office of president and so clear as to admit of no controversy nor any question of disputed succession to that high office; to the end therefore that all doubts or defects which may exist in our present laws on this subject may be remedied and future controversy prevented, be it

Resolved, By the senate that the committee on judiciary be instructed to examine into said provisions of the constitution, and into the laws passed by congress to carry them into effect, and inquire whether the provisions of said laws are constitutional and proper, adequate in all respects to their purpose and end, or whether any further legislation be necessary or proper, and to report only these bills.

Pendleton gave notice of his intention to speak Monday next upon his civil service reform proposition.

Pending resolutions were finally laid on the table with the understanding that they would be called up for discussion Tuesday.

Sherman's resolution to appoint six senators in connection with a like committee of the house to provide means of expressing the deep sensibility of the nation upon the decease of President Garfield and referring to them that part of the president's message relating thereto was passed.

Bills introduced and laid over.

Bill of last session for relief of Ben Holladay.

Blair, appropriating $1[illegible]5,000,000 for the establishment and temporary support of common schools to be expended $15,000,000 the first year and thereafter the sum to be diminished $1,000,000 yearly until ten annual appropriations be divided among the several states and territories in that proportion which the whole number of persons in each state of 10 years of age and upwards who cannot read bears to the whole number of such persons in the United States.

Teller, to establish a board of public education and aid in support of public schools of the United States. It appropriates and apportions $11,000,000 annually among several states and territories according to the number of their resident population over 10 years of age who cannot read, the amount so appropriated to be applied to the education of children between the ages of 6 and 18, without distinction of sex or color, the appropriations to continue until January 1, 1894.

At 1:05 P M. the doorkeeper announced the reception of the message from the president, and later commenced reading it.

At conclusion the senate took up Edmund's resolution revising and continuing the old committees.

Davis of Illinois, president pro tem., said he would vote for the resolution and stated his reasons, when Pugh withdrew his pending amendments and the resolution passed, ayes 32, nays 30.

House.

Haskell offered a resolution declaring Allen S Campbell, delegate-elect from Utah territory, entitled to be sworn on prima facie case.

Discussion being under discussion, a point of order was raised against it by Cox, when the president's message was received and the question of swearing in the delegate from Utah postponed until to-morrow morning.

Members proceeded to draw for seats.

The work of selecting seats having been concluded, the speaker laid before the house the president's message and it was read. The reading occupied two hours and a half. At first it was listened to attentively, but during the last hour attention flagged and members entered into conversation with each other and retired to the cloak room to smoke. The reading of the president's views on the Mormon question elicited some applause, which was repeated as the reading was concluded.

McKinley then offered the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That a committee of one member from each state represented in this house, be appointed on the part of the house to meet a joint committee which will be appointed on the part of the senate to consider and report by what token of respect and affection it may be proper for the congress of the United States to express the deep sympathy of the nation at the death of its late president, James A Garfield, and that so much of the message of the president as refers to it at once be referred to that committee.

The president's message was then ordered printed and referred to committee of the whole.

Adjourned until Friday with the understanding that further adjournment be taken until Tuesday.

ONE EXPERIENCE FROM MANY.

"I had been sick and miserable so long and had caused my husband so much trouble and expense—no one seemed to know what ailed me—that I was completely disheartened and discouraged. In this frame of mind I got a bottle of Hop Bitters and used them unknown to my family. I soon began to improve and gained so fast that my husband and family thought it strange and unnatural, and when I told them what had helped me they said 'Hurrah for Hop Bitters! Long may they prosper, for they have made mother well and us happy.'—The Mother.—Home Journal.

Shooting Guiteau.

[St Louis Globe-Democrat.]

If outside pressure avails anything in influencing decisions in courts of justice, it would be very difficult to convict a man of murder for killing Guiteau. When the news was flashed all over the country on Saturday afternoon that the assassin had been shot, there was an unmistakable desire on the part of a large majority of the American people to hear that the bullet has been truly aimed and that it had accomplished its mission. Expressions of disappointment were general when it was learned that the effort had miscarried. These came not only from the mouths of the thoughtless classes, but from those of men reputed to be of the sober judgment which recognizes the value of respect for legal processes. The fact shows that lynch law, if the circumstances are but strong enough, suggests itself to the most enlightened people.

EQUITABLE
LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY,
120 Broadway, New York.

LIFE INSURANCE PROFITS DEMONSTRATED BY ACTUAL SETTLEMENTS
MADE IN 1880.

The Society is now paying maturing Tontine Policies with the following remarkable results:

POLICIES CARRIED TEN YEARS
WITH THE RETURN OF ALL
PREMIUMS PAID AND INTEREST THEREON.

1st Example: Policy No. 42,563, issued May 25, 1869. Amount ............ $10,000 00
Total premiums paid (11 years) ............ 5,504 00
The assured is now entitled to draw, in cash, $6,[illegible], having had besides $10,000 of assurance for eleven years, 115 per cent. of premiums paid, returnable in cash.

This example and those which follow show that

LARGER PROFITS ARE PAID
POLICY-HOLDERS
THAN ARE NOW DECLARED BY ANY OTHER COMPANY.

2d Example: Policy No. 58,343, issued Dec. 20, 1870. Endowment 20 years. Tontine Period ten years. Amount ............ $10,000 00
Total premiums paid (10 years) ............ 7,[illegible]0 00
The assured on Dec. 20, 1880, will be entitled to draw in cash, $9,[illegible] 30, 1[illegible] per cent. of the premiums paid.
These results, although predicted by carefully made estimates, are

NOT ESTIMATES, BUT ACTUAL CASH RETURNS.

3d Example: Policy No. 41,611, issued March 27, 1866. Amount ............ $5,000 00
Total premiums paid ............ 2,908 [illegible]
In this case the assured withdrew, March 27, 1880, in cash, $3,312.45, being 114 per cent. of premiums paid.
Many policies will be thus paid in 1881, showing

CASH RETURNS OF FROM 100 TO 120 PER CENT. OF THE PREMIUMS PAID.

Assets securely invested of $43,000,000. Surplus, nearly $10,000,000. The Society's popularity is shown by the fact that for the last eleven years the total amount of new policies issued has been greater than that of any other company in existence, thus making its average

ANNUAL NEW BUSINESS LARGER THAN THAT OF ANY OTHER COMPANY.

The Society pays death claims promptly and in full. Its policies are clear and concise, and with no unreasonable conditions.

EVERY POLICY BECOMES INCONTESTABLE
AFTER THREE YEARS.

RAILROADS AND EARNINGS.

The address by the "Marion County Anti-Monopoly League," which we print to-day, has been sent to the journals of the state with a request that they give it publicity. It is a document that deserves examination.

The complaint formulated against railroad managers is chiefly this, namely, that they often make the roads earn dividends on inflated or "watered" stock, to the injury and oppression of the people. For this complaint, there is in many cases too much ground. It is said by the authors of this address that "the people should pass a law compelling each railroad company to furnish a detailed statement, under oath, of the actual cost of its works, and that its stock issue shall be confined to the amount so reported, on which stockholders shall be entitled to dividends not exceeding ten per cent. per annum."

This would be a reasonable requirement. We do not believe that any railroad company operating in Oregon would object to its enactment into law. Dividends of ten per cent. on the actual cost of railways are ample returns. Probably there is no capitalist investing in railroads among us who would not be glad to accept such a law, with the assurance it would give that there would be no further legislative molestation of railway investments.

But the authors of this address do not act with perfect fairness when they make the gross mismanagement under which the road from Portland to Roseburg was built a basis of attack upon its present status. The money furnished for construction of the road was in large part wasted. The bondholders were swindled grievously. Sixty per cent. of their money was stolen or wholly lost. The road has been in operation about ten years, and during that time they have not realized four per cent. per annum on the actual cost of the road, and are not realizing it now. It has been a bad business—so bad that if the people of the state have reason to be dissatisfied with it, those whose money was put into the road have had for many years much more reason to be so. Ten per cent. on the actual cost of this road would be a splendid income—an income which the section from Portland to Roseburg is not likely to earn within this generation. The fact that the people who furnished money in good faith for the construction of this road were shamefully robbed ought not to be made a basis for further attack upon them for a state of affairs which they had no agency in bringing about. It certainly was not their fault that the stock was watered and their money stolen, squandered or misapplied.

It is true there has been a great increase of the capital stock of the O. R. & N. company. Just what the increase is we are not informed. But in view of the great undertakings of the company it is certainly large, and necessarily so. The company has expended not less than $6,000,000 cash already in extension of its lines, and its work is only fairly begun. The larger part of its road is very costly. Vast expenditure of money is necessary to carry out what this company has undertaken, and it would be well therefore, before entering complaint, to inquire whether there is not reason for increase of its capital stock, and whether the actual results of construction will not justify it.

Again, the authors of the address will easily see that there is want of fairness in the comparison of rates on such roads as the New York Central and the Pennsylvania with those of Oregon roads. The prodigious traffic there enables rates to be made which, if made here, would not half pay running expenses alone. Over the Pennsylvania railroad three hundred trains pass daily. It is just as well to be fair and candid about the matter, and admit that the rates on such a road can be no criterion for rates on roads whose business is as nothing in comparison.

It is admitted that we want railroads and that those who invest money in railroads are entitled to fair earnings. This address says ten per cent. on actual cost. So far very good. Adherence to this principle should give no ground of complaint. We have no doubt that railroad capitalists would be delighted with an annual profit of ten per cent. But, inasmuch as the country wants railroads, it should examine this subject with care and deliberation, lest it go so far beyond this result as to hinder or defeat the financial operations necessary for works of so great magnitude.

PRODUCTION OF THE PRECIOUS METALS.

It is a principle long recognized by economists that the cost of obtaining gold and silver from the mines exceeds on the whole the value of the product. In other words, if account be taken from year to year of the labor employed and expense incurred in mining gold and silver, the product will afford no compensation for the outlay. The New York Herald says: "That there are paying gold and silver mines in the United States and that some large fortunes have been earned from them is beyond denial, but taking the mines and miners in the aggregate, what business shows so small results in proportion to the number of persons engaged and the amount of capital invested? In three states and as many territories the production of the precious metals is the principal object of the people, and yet the total annual yield is less than $80,000,000. This should not discourage legitimate, intelligent mining operations, but it certainly indicates that most men lose their heads when they begin to search for gold and silver."

It has been calculated that the total production of silver in all countries from 1493 to 1875, according to avoirdupois weight, was 397,128,271 pounds, of which 167,651,680 pounds, or 42.22 per cent., came from Mexico; 68,688,400 pounds, or 17.3 per cent., from Peru; and 28,971,720 pounds, or 7.8 per cent., from the United States. Of the aggregate quantity for the whole period, North and South America supplied 335,696,100 pounds, or 84.77 per cent. In the same time the world's production of gold amounted to 20,797,959 pounds, of which the United States furnished 4,457,420 pounds, or 21.48 per cent.; Australia 3,986,400 pounds, or 19.17 per cent.; New Grenada 2,671,900 pounds, or 12.85 per cent.; Brazil 2,281,510 pounds, or 10.97 per cent.; the Russian empire 2,274,041 pounds, or 10.93 per cent.; Africa 1,609,520 pounds, or 7.74 per cent.; and Austro-Hungary 1,013,430 pounds, or 4.87 per cent. Of the aggregate gold production in the 383 years, North and South America yielded 11,580,488 pounds, or 55.68 per cent., and all the rest of the world 9,216,911 pounds, or 44.32 per cent.

Of course these statistics are not entirely accurate, but they may be taken as an approximation to correctness. It thus appears that the great bulk of the metals used as money, added to the world's stock in nearly four centuries, has been obtained from the mines in the western hemisphere. The effect of a copious increase of money in stimulating production, commerce and enterprise has been universally noticed by the writers on political economy; hence the sudden, great, and continuous abundance of gold and silver received by the old world from the new must have exerted a powerful influence upon the industrial situation and international relations of the countries in Europe especially, into which the new-found treasures of the American continents poured in a steady stream. European civilization has been able to advance to higher levels of excellence because of this enormous contribution of material resources from America. But while production of the precious metals has made so great a contribution to the general sum of human advancement, it has never specially or permanently enriched the countries producing them, and still less the classes who have found their occupation for years or for life in this field of labor.

Railroad construction throughout the Pacific northwest next year will be limited only by the amount of labor that it may be possible to obtain. A moment's attention will show that there will be an enormous demand for labor. The Northern Pacific company intend to put in the link between Portland and Kalama. The O. R. & N. company will complete its road from Portland to The Dalles. It will endeavor also to push the branch from Umatilla across the Blue mountains. It has also branch lines to construct in Eastern Washington. The Oregon and California company will build south from Roseburg, extending their road to Ashland by the close of 1882 if the labor can be had. Besides all this, the Northern Pacific will be pushed across Northern Idaho and into Montana. Twenty thousand men will be wanted. The only reason to fear delay in construction arises from the probability that not nearly the amount of labor wanted can be obtained.

---

The superintendent of the census has formulated a plan for the reapportionment of the country into congressional districts, on a basis of one representative to 169,080 inhabitants. This plan would leave the membership of the house of representatives 293, as at present. Secretary Kirkwood will submit the plan to congress. On this basis the following changes in representation would ensue in the forty-eighth congress: Arkansas, California, Michigan Mississippi, South Carolina and West Virginia would gain one each; Minnesota and Nebraska would gain two each; Alabama, Illinois, Maine, Maryland, New Hampshire, Ohio, Tennessee and Vermont would lose one each, Pennsylvania two and New York three. The other states would show no change.

General Judson Kilpatrick, United States minister to Chili, died at Santiago on Sunday last. General Kilpatrick was born near Deckertown, New Jersey, January 14, 1836, graduated from West Point in 1861 and entered the army just at the opening of the civil war. He rapidly rose to a major generalship of volunteers and gained considerable renown as a bold, dashing cavalry leader. He commanded the cavalry wing in Sherman's march through the south and there won much of his fame. From 1865 to 1870 he was minister to Chili, and was again appointed to the same position in 1879.

---

The advantage of a first rate man for chief of police has been amply demonstrated during the period of recent danger of small pox epidemic. The courage vigilance and fidelity of Chief Lappeus have won for him golden opinions. People now may see the advantage of selecting a man for this responsible position with a view to his fitness, instead of allowing the place to go to some common political hack as a reward for professional and unscrupulous partisan ring service. Portland ought never to make that mistake again.

---

Senator Logan offers a bill to place Gen. Grant on the retired list of the army. It would be just as well also to include a resolution to "retire" him from politics and the third-term aspirations with which he has been busy ever since 1875. This last is the "retired" position which the larger part of his countrymen think he would fill most becomingly to himself and with most advantage to the country.

---

As a result of the propagation of salmon in the McCloud river, the industry of salmon canning on the Sacramento and its tributaries is increasing with great rapidity. In 1878 the canneries there put up 30,000 cases; in 1879 47,000, in 1880, 63,495, and this year, 180,000. The number of young salmon hatched this year by artificial means and turned into the Sacramento and its tributaries was 2,270,000.

---

At present there are about 1500 white men and the same number of Chinese employed on construction of the Canadian Pacific railroad in British Columbia. The number will be increased to 10,000 next spring, if so many can possibly be obtained.

---

We shall print the president's message to-morrow. We had expected to do so to-day, but the last sheets had not arrived at the hour it was necessary to go to press.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

EPITOME OF LAST NIGHT'S PROCEEDINGS.

Three Special Policemen get back on the Force—Big Batch of Bills paid and the Usual Routine Business.

The city council met in regular session last night, Mayor Thompson presiding and all members present.

VETO MESSAGE.

The mayor returned the ordinance repealing ordinance No. 3299, requiring saloons to close at midnight, without his approval, for the following reason: Ordinance 3290 amends section 30 of ordinance 2959, which section provides that saloons close on all election days. The repeal of ordinance No. 3290 would repeal this section, and the city would be without a law to close saloons on days of election.

The ordinance was lost by a unanimous vote.

CONCERNING STONE CROSSINGS.

The mayor submitted the following communication:

I would most respectfully call your attention to the necessity of providing by ordinance for laying stone crossings at the intersections of streets where stone block pavements are laid. The crossings should be put down on the line of all crosswalks where the stone block pavements have already been put down, and on all streets where stone block pavements are hereafter laid.

Referred to committee on streets.

POLICE APPOINTMENTS.

The mayor under provisions of sections 8 and 135 of the city charter appointed A. Henline a regular policeman, and S. C. Barton, Benjamin B. Branch and A. B. Branum regular "specials," without salary, and asked their confirmation. All were confirmed by unanimous vote.

PETITIONS, ETC.

From Mrs. J. Henderson asking pay for nursing J. Deshon, a smallpox patient, 20 days, leaving the amount to be fixed by the council; placed on file.

From the Portland Macadam and Paving Co., calling attention to the fact that the United States authorities refuse to pay their assessment for Fifth street improvement, and asking for relief; referred to committee on judiciary and the city attorney.

REPORTS.

From viewers in proposed cost of sewer in Taylor street, and sewer in F street; referred to committee on streets.

From viewers in lateral extension of Sixth street; report read and further consideration indefinitely postponed.

From the committee on health and police to whom was referred the petition concerning cigarette smoking asking that the matter be referred to the committee on judiciary and the city attorney; adopted.

From the city surveyor in the extension of Thirteenth street; referred to the committee on streets.

J. W. Brazee and Sylvester Pennoyer, viewers in the proposed extension of Pine street from Front to the river, presented a majority and J. P. O. Lownsdale's minority report, which was referred to the committee on judiciary and city attorney.

NEW ORDINANCES.

Making appropriation of $201 05 for a heater for Twos passed.

Declaring cost of sewer in F street and making proper appropriation; read twice.

Declaring cost of sewer in Taylor street and making proper appropriations therefor; passed.

Declaring cost of improving Yamhill street from First to Fourth and of East Park street, and making necessary appropriations; read twice.

To repeal the ordinance requiring theaters to close at 12 o'clock, but forbidding anything except string instruments to be played after that hour; referred to committee on health and police.

To repeal section 30 of ordinance 2959, and ordinance 3290, and offering an amendment; read twice. [This will restore the law requiring saloons to close on election days, and permits them to keep open all night as formerly.—REPORTER.]

Declaring cost of improving intersections of North Front and N and North Third and North Front, and making requisite appropriations; passed.

ENGROSSED ORDINANCES.

Authorizing construction of wharf opposite block 101; passed.

RESOLUTIONS.

The following resolutions were adopted:

That the committee on streets be authorized to buy one dozen cane seat chairs and a hat rack for the committee rooms.

That an extension of ten days be granted to the city surveyor to make surveys and file reports of extensions of Meade, Water and Fourteenth streets.

That notice be given of the proposed improvement of G street, from west line of North Front to west line of North Fourth, by bringing the street to within ten inches of grade with ballast or other rock, and with sand and gravel.

That the city auditor be directed to issue warrants for the collection of delinquent assessments for the improvement of B street.

That notice be given of the following improvements:

Extension of South First street, from Porter to south boundary of city, by laying side and cross walks, and by planking roadway twenty feet in width (except where same is macadamized) and by doing necessary grading.

Harrison street, from center line of Front to center line of Water, by grading, side and cross walks and planking roadway sixteen feet wide.

Jefferson street, from east line of Front to east line of Fourth, by side and cross walks and macadamizing roadway full width, laying stone block gutters and doing necessary grading.

To construct a sewer in Morrison street, from the west line of Tenth to the west line of Lownsdale.

That S. Wilcox be allowed till January 15 to complete sewer in F street.

That the committee on health and police and chief of police be directed to take steps to stop dumping of offal and street cleanings on the block between G, North Front, Third and Fourth streets, and that they provide a place for dumping offal.

That the city surveyor survey a proposed extension of J street from the compromise line to the west boundary of the city.

One objection in going to J. H. Robbins & Son's store on First street, between Salmon and Main, is that you will only find the newest and most elegantly designed goods of every description for holiday presents in this city.

Go to Keith's for your oysters.

Eastern and Olympia oysters at the Oxford, Oak St.

Roller skating and bicycle school at the pavilion. Open day and evening.

A fine second hand Piano, good as new, at 153 Third street. Must be sold at once.

CHINAMEN MUST GO.—National Washing Powders are driving all the Chinamen out of the country.

52 Morrison St. is the place to buy your toys, stationery, Christmas books, albums, candies, etc., at the very lowest prices.

MUSIC.—Wiley B. Allen, Music dealer, 153 Third street, has the largest stock of sheet music in Oregon. Orders by mail filled promptly.

The photographic work of Abell continues to be favorably spoken of by all who see the display. Orders are duplicated in almost every instance. Call and see him.

Pioneer Wood Yard foot of Morrison street. J. SORENSEN.

NATIONAL WASHING POWDERS—Are just the thing; washing made easy. Saves the clothes and does its work well.

BELOW FIRST STREET PRICES.—Christmas goods way below First street prices at Wiley B. Allen's book and music store, on Third street.

Mrs. Dr. B. A. Owens, Office over Plummer's drug store, corner First and Main. Special attention to Women's diseases and of the Eye and Ear.

The "Household" took the first premium for Best Family Sewing Machine at the Mechanics' Fair. John B. Garrison, 167 Third street, Portland, General Agent.

A full set of Davidson's views of Oregon and Columbia river scenery makes a fine present to eastern friends. His cabinet and boudoir photos are unexcelled in the city.

People desiring to buy diamonds, watches and jewelry at low prices should remember that they get a written guaranty with every article they buy at Uncle Myers', 181 First street.

FINE OVERCOATINGS.—Neimeyer, the fashionable tailor, First and Morrison, has everything in the way of new overcoatings that the most fastidious taste can demand. Prices reasonable.

GARRISON'S SEWING MACHINE STORE, 167 Third street, Portland, is the best place in Oregon to get your sewing machines, repaired and for buying all kinds of needles, attachments and oil.

Those charming and very hospitable ladies of Gervais are informed that on their next visit to Portland Uncle Myers will be delighted to show them his great assortment of holiday goods, 181 First St.

We confine ourselves to the truth in advertising our business. We have the only coupes in town. Carriages and coupes may be ordered any time, day or night. ACKER & LEIHY, City Stables.

ELEGANT UPRIGHT PIANOS FOR $275, FINE PARLOR ORGANS FOR $85.

Simon Harris, 49 First st., is offering great inducements to those wishing instruments. Have no agents out. Those wishing to buy can save money by applying in person or sending for catalogue. All instruments guaranteed. Largest stock of Musical Goods in the city.

CARD OF THANKS.

The ladies of the Relief Society desire to return their sincere and heartfelt thanks to our citizens who have again so generously responded to our call for thanksgiving donations. It was gratifying and encouraging to mark the cordial manner with which the bags were everywhere received, the interest in the Home and the charitable work of the society, seeming to make it a pleasure and a privilege to give. The well-filled store room at the Home speaks volumes in praise of our many liberal-hearted citizens. But it will all be needed, for the amount of food required to keep 25 hearty children in a healthy condition will very rapidly consume supplies, though they seem bountiful.

Thanks are also due Mr. Geo. Himes for the printing on the bags, which was done gratuitously.

MINOR MENTION.

Board of fire delegates meeting to-night.

The Oregon sails hence at midnight.

The new street railway ordinance did not come up in the council last night.

In the "Playing Doctor" item yesterday, Kiernan was printed Gearin. The rising young democratic statesman is not blessed with two children.

Mrs. Holland yesterday entered complaint against Councilman Keller for harboring a vicious dog, which, it is alleged, bit Mrs. Holland's little girl while she was passing Mr. Keller's residence.

PERSONAL.

Hon. J. D. Merryman, of Astoria, is at the Esmond.

Mr. Julius Haas returned yesterday from an eastern Oregon trip.

Mr. Frank E. Hodgkin, of Salem, assistant secretary of state, is in the city.

RESOLUTIONS.

HALL OF COLUMBIAN ENGINE CO. NO. 3,
PORTLAND, Dec. 6, 1881.

At a regular meeting of the above named company, held on Tuesday evening, Dec. 6, 1881, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, It has pleased Almighty God, the Supreme Ruler, to remove from among us our beloved brother member and fireman George W. Maxwell; therefore be it

Resolved, That in the death of George W. Maxwell, Columbian Engine Co. No. 3, and the Portland fire department have lost one of their active and efficient members, and one who was always the foremost in the dangers and active duties of a fireman, and whose loss we deeply deplore; and be it

Resolved, That the house of Columbian Engine Co No. 3 be draped in mourning for thirty days, and the members of the company wear the usual badge of mourning; and be it

Resolved, That the foregoing resolutions be published in the daily papers.

THEIR ANGELS.

My heart is lonely as heart can be,
And the cry of Rachel goes up from me;
For the tender faces unforgot
Of the little children that are not;
Ah me, I know,
They are all in the land where I shall go.

I want them close in the dear old way;
But life goes forward and will not stay;
And He who made it has made it right;
But I miss my darlings out of my sight.
Although I know,
They are all in the land where I shall go.

Only one has died. There is one small mound
Violet heaped in sweet graves round;
Twenty years they have bloomed and spread
Over the little baby head;
And oh! I know
She is safe in the land where I shall go.

Not dead; only grown and gone away.
The hair of my darling is turning gray,
That was golden once in the days so dear,
Over for many and many a year.
Yet I know—I know—
She's a child in the land where I shall go.

My bright, brave boy is a grave-eyed man,
Facing the world as a worker can;
But I think of him now as I had him then,
And I lay his cheek to my heart again.
And so, I know,
I shall have him there where we both shall go!

Out from the Father and into life;
Back to His breast from the united strife,
And the finished labor. I hear the word
From the lips of Him who was Child and Lord,
And I know, that so
It shall be in the land where we all shall go.

Given back—with the gain. The secret this
Of the blessed Kingdom of Children is!
My mother's arms are waiting for me;
I shall lay my head on my father's knee;
For so, I know,
I'm a child myself where I shall go.

The world is troublous and hard and cold,
And men and women grow gray and old;
But behind the world is an inner place
Where yet their angels behold God's face.
And lo! we know,
That only the children can see Him so!

NEEDLE AND THREAD.

"An old bachelor?" said Honora Maywood.

"That's what he told me, just in so many words," said Mrs. Pennypacker, who stood on the threshold of her best room, with her head tied up in a pocket handkerchief, and a hair-broom in her hand, wherewith she gesticulated after a tragic fashion as she talked, while Miss Maywood, tall and slender as a wild lily, stood in the hall, with a roll of music under her arm, and her slight figure wrapped in a shabby black shawl. "And he's willing to pay my price, cash, every Sunday night. Never attempted to beat me down a penny, if you'll believe it, my dear.

"He drinks only English breakfast tea, and he wants his pie crust made with the best Alderney butter, instead of lard, as is good enough for the other people; and he must have ventilators to all the windows, and an open grate, instead of the base burning stove; and—I hope you'll not be offended, my dear—but he particularly dislikes a piano."

"Dislikes a piano?" said the little music teacher, reddening in spite of herself.

"And he says, says he, 'I hope, Mrs. Pennypacker, that there is no piano in the house. A piano, says he, 'plays the deuce with my nervous system, with its everlasting tum, tum!' These were his words, my dear. So, my dear, I'll be grateful if you won't mind doing your practicin' until he's out for his daily walk—from one to three, just as regular as the clock."

Miss Maywood looked piteously up in the landlady's face.

"I will do anything to oblige you, Mrs. Pennypacker," she said, earnestly. "I have not forgotten how much I am indebted to you, both in actual money, and in kindness, which money can never repay."

"My dear, don't say a word," said Mrs. Pennypacker, hastily. "You've been sick, and you've got a little behindhand, and it's quite natural you should be a little low spirited now and then. But you mustn't get discouraged. And you're quite welcome to stay on here until you are able to settle up your little account."

Honora Maywood sighed as she thought how often her little advertisement had been inserted in the daily newspapers without attracting the least notice from the world of patrons and pupils. There were so many "capable music teachers willing to give lessons at moderate prices" nowadays, and how was anyone to know how sorely she needed the money?

And, as the time crept on and no pupils came, Honora began to ask herself seriously whether she should go out to some menial capacity, or stay genteelly at home and starve.

"Clothes, ma'am."

Honora started from her reverie as the washerwoman's stumpy little girl banged herself, like a human battering-ram, up against the door, with a preposterously large basket on her arm.

"Yes," said Honora coloring. "Put them down, Sally. But I—I'm afraid it isn't convenient to pay your mother to-day."

"Mother didn't say nothin' 'bout the pay," said Sally, wiping her forehead with a whisk of her feet. "I was to leave the clothes with her 'umble duty, and she 'oped they'd suit; but it was that damp on Monday and Tuesday as starch wouldn't stick. And she 'opes you'll excuse all mistakes, as they'll be done better next time."

"I dare say they are quite right," said Honora, with a little sigh, as she marveled at this unexpected access of courtesy on the part of her Milesian laundress.

But when Sally had stumped off downstairs, her flapping slippers beating a sort of tattoo as she went, Miss Maywood took off the fringed towel that covered that basket of clothes, and gave a little start.

"Shirts," said Honora, "and socks, and turn-over collars No. 16, and great big pocket handkerchiefs, like the sails of a ship, and white vests, and goodness me, what does it all mean? Mrs. Mulvey has sent me some gentleman's wardrobe by mistake. I must send these things back at once."

But then Miss Maywood looked down at the articles thoughtfully.

"I never had a brother," mused Miss Maywood, "and I can't remember my father; but of this I am quite certain—if I had either one or the other, I should thank any girl to mend their dilapidated wardrobes, if they looked like this. And Mrs. Mulvey can't send before night, and unfortunately I've nothing to do, so I'll just mend this poor young fellow's clothes, whoever he may be. A half-starved theological student, perhaps, training for the Polynesian islands; or perhaps a newspaper reporter, or a poor clerk, under the skylight of some dry goods house. At all events he is worse off than I am, for he cannot mend his own clothes, and I can."

And the smiles dimpled around Honora Maywood's little rosebud of a mouth as she sat down to darn holes, sew on tapes and insert patches.

"He'll never know who did it," said Honora to herself, "but I daresay he'll be thankful; and if one can't get a chance to do a little good in this world be ought not to grudge one's time and trouble."

And as Honora stitched away, she mused sadly whether or not she ought to accept a position which had offered itself of assistant matron in an orphan asylum, where the work would be almost unendurable and the pay next to nothing, with no Sundays nor holidays and a ladies' committee, consisting of three starched old maids, to "sit" upon her the first Friday of every month.

"I almost think I'd rather starve," said Honora. "But dear me! starving is a serious business when one comes to consider it face to face."

Sally Mulvey came back, puffing and blowing like a human whale, in about two hours.

"Mother said she sent the wrong basket," said she breathlessly.

"I thought it very probable, Sally," said Miss Maywood.

"And mother's compliments," added Sally, "and she can't undertake your things no longer, Miss Maywood, 'cause she does a cash business, and there ain't nothing been paid on your account since last June."

Honora felt herself turning scarlet.

"I am very sorry, Sally," said she. "Tell you mother I will settle my bill as soon as I possibly can."

Sally flounced out of the room, red and indignant, like an overcharged thunder cloud, and poor little Honora, dropping her head on her hands, burst into tears.

* * * * *

"Pretty girl that—very pretty," said Mr. Broderick, the old bachelor, to his landlady.

"Do you mean——"

"I mean the young lady boarder of yours that I see on the stairs now and then," said Mr. Broderick. "Nice figure—big, soft eyes, like a gazelle. Didn't some one tell me she was a music teacher?"

"That's her profession," said Mrs. Pennypacker. "But there ain't many pupils as wants tuition, and poor little dear, as has had but a hard time of it."

"Humph," grunted Mr. Broderick, "what fools women are not to have a regular profession. If I had a daughter I'd bring her up a self-supporting institution."

And Mr. Broderick disappeared into his room, in the midst whereof stood a girl with flapping slippers, a pretentious shawl and a bonnet which had originally been manufactured for a woman twice her size.

"Who are you?" demanded Mr. Broderick.

"Please, sir, I'm Sally—the washerwoman's Sally!" was the response.

"And what do you want here?" said Mr. Broderick.

"Please, sir, I've come to bring your things," said Sally, chattering off her lesson like a parrot. "And please, sir, her 'umble duty, and she 'opes they'll suit, but it was that damp and muggy Monday and Tuesday as starch wouldn't stick; and she 'opes you'll excuse all mistakes, as they shall be done better next time, sir—please, sir."

"Who mended 'em?" demanded Mr. Broderick, whose hawk eyes had already caught sight of the dainty needlework upon his garments.

"Nobody mended 'em," said Sally. "And mother she says it's easy to see as the new gent is a bachelor, on account of the holes in his hee's and toes, and strings off his dickeys."

"I can tell you who mended 'em," said Mrs. Pennypacker, "for I see her at it, and pretty dear—Miss Maywood! And says she, 'I don't know whose they are, Mrs. Pennypacker; but,' says she, 'they need mending, and a 'and retion never comes amiss.' No more it does, sir. Lord bless her!"

"Humph!" said Mr. Broderick, "she's right—no more it does. And she's a regular scientist at the needle, is Miss Maywood. Just look at that patch, Mrs. Pennypacker! 'Euclid's Geometry' couldn't produce a straighter line or truer angles. See the toe of that stocking. It's like a piece of Goblin tapestry. That's the way I like to see things done."

And Mr. Broderick never rested until he had been formally introduced to Honora Maywood, and thanked her with equal formality for the good offices she had unwittingly rendered him.

* * * * *

It was a golden October evening that Honora came down into the kitchen where Mrs. Pennypacker was baking pies for her eccentric boarder with the crusts made of the best Alderney butter instead of lard.

"Oh, dear! oh, dear!" said Mrs. Pennypacker; "what a thing it is to be an old bachelor."

"He won't be a bachelor much longer," said Honora, laughing and coloring as she laid her cheek on the good landlady's cushioning shoulder.

"What do you mean?" said Mrs. Pennypacker.

"He asked me to marry him," said Honora, "after only two weeks' acquaintance. He says that a girl who can mend stockings as I do needs no other test. And he says he loves me; and—and—"

"Well?"

"I almost think I love him!" whispered Miss Maywood.

And so the problem of Honora's solitary life was solved, all through the magic influence of "Needle and Thread."

THE TRANSPORTATION QUESTION.

An Address by the Marion County Anti-Monopoly League.

SALEM, Dec. 3, 1881.

To the People of the State of Oregon: This league presents for your earnest consideration the following suggestions in relation to the important questions growing out of the rapid construction and development of methods of transportation and communication. Since the formation of our government, one hundred years ago, and especially within the last quarter of a century, the wonderful progress in the construction of railroads and telegraph lines in the United States has presented new and complicated questions for consideration, which exert an exceedingly important influence upon the commercial, industrial and financial interests of the people, and which demand the close attention and excite the earnest solicitude of all who are interested in the material welfare of the country.

There has been constructed, up to the year 1880, 93,671 miles of road, at a represented cost of $4,897,401,097. The principal gain in the construction of railroads in the last ten years, has been confined chiefly to the western and Pacific states. During this time there has sprung up among speculators a gambling tendency to take advantage of this rapid development in the construction of railroads, to absorb all of the benefits and profits arising therefrom, by inflating the cost of roads and watering of stocks, in flagrant violation of the rules of justice and propriety, and to the great detriment of the interests of commerce, and of agricultural and other industries. Among the methods of these "gamblers" for their aggrandizement are the following:

1. They gain possession of a franchise for a railroad route, upon which they issue mortgage bonds to double the amount of the cost of the contemplated road, using a portion of the money received from the sale of such bonds in the construction of the road, and the payment of exorbitant salaries to themselves, reserving a large surplus for the purpose of controlling politics of the country, and paying heavy dividends on stock issued greatly in excess of the actual cost of the road, and for which they do not pay one cent, but make it the basis for taxing the people high rates of freight and fares.

2. As the business of the country develops and the traffic of the road increases, in order to make the increase appear but a fair return upon the capital, they water the stock to such an extent that the additional dividends absorb all the profits of the producer, when, in fact, the increased business should work a reduction in the cost of transportation. As one means of protecting themselves in these unconscionable proceedings they issue free passes to public officers and prominent citizens, and extend other favors which, in effect, obligate the recipients as their defenders.

3. To enable these parties to cover up their schemes and create a public sentiment favorable to themselves they subsidize the venal press and send their emissaries among the people for the purpose of securing the election to office of men who can be relied upon to subserve their interests.

The laws under which these corporations are formed imply that all the stock issued shall be paid up in full, and that all the money received for the same be honestly applied to the construction of their works. To insure obedience to these requirements the people should pass a law compelling each railroad company to furnish a detailed statement, under oath, of the actual cost of its works; and that its stock issue shall be confined to the amount so reported, on which stockholders shall be entitled to a dividend not to exceed ten per cent. per annum, making a forfeiture of franchise the penalty for violation of such law.

There is evidence on file in the supreme court of this state showing that the cost of the railroad from Portland to Roseburg, a distance of 198 miles, was $2,784,016 16. There was issued of bonds on the line of road from Portland to the state line, 365 miles, $10,950,000, all of which were sold, and all of the money, save that expended in the construction, was appropriated by the promoters of the scheme. There was issued, in addition to the bonds, $20,000,000 of stock. Under the remodeling of this elastic corporation, the $10,950,000 of bonds have been converted into 7 per cent. interest-bearing preferred stock; and for the accrued interest on the bonds there has been issued $5,475,000 of common stock, making a stock debt of $35,425,000 on a road that has only cost $2,785,016 16.

Thus it will be seen the foundation has been laid by which, when the business shall have been sufficiently developed, a tax of $3,549,750 may be levied on the people to pay a 7 per cent. dividend on this watered stock.

Some three years ago there existed on the Columbia and Willamette rivers a line of transportation, with facilities sufficient to do the business of those routes. This property was highly estimated at a value of $2,000,000, but was sold to the O. R. & N. Co. for $5,000,000. In addition to the purchase from the C. S. N. Co., by the O. R. & N. Co., of the Columbia and Willamette routes, for which was paid $5,000,000, there was purchased by the O. R. & N. Co. the property of the Oregon Steamship Company, for which was paid $4,677,000 less $190,000 paid for real estate. This property consisted of the steamships Columbia, Oregon, Elder and City of Chester, and the wharf and dock at Portland, altogether worth not to exceed $1,500,000, and for which was paid $4,478,000. This purchase was made by a party who was manager of the company that sold and also of the one that purchased. This fact accounts for the amount paid being about three times the real value of the property. The amount of these purchases made by the O. R. & N. Co. aggregated $9,747,000, while the true value thereof would not exceed $3,659,000, leaving a net profit of $6,048,000, which illustrates the methods by which some men suddenly become millionaires. There has been an increase of the capital stock of the O. R. & N. Co. to $12,000,000, and also a bonded debt of $6,000,000, which with the original makes a total bonded debt of $12,000,000, and an aggregate of $24,000,000 bond and stock.

In addition to the enormous debt put upon this enterprise, yet in its infancy, there has been incorporated another company, owned and controlled by the same parties, the Oregon Improvement company, with a capital stock of $5,000,000. Still later the same parties organized the Oregon and transcontinental company with a capital stock of $50,000,000, making a total capital stock of the three corporations $67,000,000, which in effect is an inflation of the stock of the original company.

The people of Oregon have it within their power to check this reckless encroachment of corporations upon their rights, and make an example of the bold adventurers who have thus presumed upon their ignorance. Plato, one of the greatest Greek philosophers, said that one of the most objectionable governments for a people was one which was republican in form; that while such a government in its purity obtained the largest share of liberty, its people were nevertheless the most abject subjects of tyranny. The people becoming careless and indifferent to their liberties, would allow themselves to be bound hand and foot before they discover the danger that threatens them. Is this prophecy of the philosopher to be verified in Oregon? We believe that the people of Oregon have sufficient intelligence to detect the sophistry of these designing men, and strength to thwart their schemes.

Upon comparison of rates of freight and passenger tariff in this state with those of the principal roads in the east, we find that the people of Oregon have been grossly imposed upon. We take for illustration the following roads for the last four years: The New York Central, Hudson River, New York, Lake Erie and Western, and the Pennsylvania railroads. The average freight charges per ton per mile on these roads was, for the year 1877, 9½ mills; for the year 1878, 9⅓ mills; for the year 1879, 8 mills; for the year 1880, 8⅓ mills. It will be seen by the above that the highest rate charged was less than one cent per ton per mile. The rate for the year 1880, applied to the O. & C. R. R., being 8⅓ mills per mile, for the distance of 200 miles, from Roseburg to Portland, would amount to $1 73 per ton, and from Salem to Portland 14 45⁄100 cents per ton, for the entire distance. The existing rates on the O. & C. R. R. are from 45½ mills for the lowest, to 113⅓ mills per ton per mile for the highest.

We do not oppose railroads; our aim is simply to protect the people by just and wholesome regulations. Whenever railroads in Oregon are constructed and operated on correct and just principles, rates here will be satisfactorily low.

In view of the foregoing ominous facts, we say to the toiling many of our state, whose labor is daily enriching encroachers upon their dearest rights. It is you who furnish the money to build the railroads, either by subsidies or by assessments levied on you in the shape of exorbitant rates of transportation, to meet the interest and principal of the bonded debt. The stock does not contribute one dollar towards the rest of the roads, but controls the roads and exacts high dividends to enrich its holders. The responsibility is with you to see that laws are enacted which while inviting capital to seek employment among you at fair rates of remuneration in all legitimate enterprises, will enable you to control the power which always attends its vast accumulations; with you to see that no man is elevated to office who is not above the bribery of railroad passes and personal favors—who is not worthy and true to your interests.

FEEBLE LADIES.

Those languid, tiresome sensations, causing you to feel scarcely able to be on your feet; that constant drain that is taking from your system all its elasticity; driving the bloom from your cheeks; that continual strain upon your vital forces, rendering you irritable and fretful, can easily be removed by the use of that marvelous remedy, Hop Bitters. Irregularities and obstructions of your system are relieved at once, while the special cause of periodical pain is permanently removed. Will you heed this?—Cincinnati Saturday Night.

THE NORTHWEST.

Southern Oregon.

It costs 4 cents per pound to get freight from Roseburg to Jacksonville.

T. C. Beckman, of Jacksonville, who is now in Pueblo, New York, took from his Oregon home some pears that are creating some sensation there. One of them weighed two pounds and one-half ounce, and was 19½ inches one way and 15 inches the other. The other was nearly as large, and the pair of pears are described by a paper at that place as "nearly as large as summer squashes" raised in that locality.

J. H. Wrisley, who has been experimenting with sorghum in Jackson county for several years past, says: "This season has demonstrated beyond a doubt that Rogue river valley cannot be equaled for raising sorghum. We have manufactured syrup on cane from all parts of the valley 20 miles each way from the mill, and from all parts we have found the cane to yield from four gallons of juice making a gallon of 12 pounds of syrup. The cane possesses an amount of saccharine matter not equaled by any cane heard of in the eastern states. It needs only a well arranged establishment, according to a good method or system, to supply the state with its syrup.

Eastern Oregon.

The Pendleton brass band has been reorganized.

Property holders living below Main street, Pendleton, have decided to levy a five mill tax and construct a wing dam 700 feet long, eight feet at the base and five feet higher than the present stage of water, to protect their property from the annual inundation by back water.

Umatilla county pays taxes on the following amounts of property: Land, 116,231 acres, $943,... 771 lots, $260,407; implements, $24,508; merchandise, $...,107; money, $757,053; household, $135,146; houses, 12,860, $587,793; cattle, 8628, $102,151; sheep, 145,256, $227,928; hogs, 3266, $14,646; gross, $4,5...,804; indebtedness, $1,275,052; exempt, $...; taxable, $2,941,...

Washington Territory.

Capt. Woods, from South Bend, W. T., is shipping 2,000,000 feet of lumber monthly from the mill at that place. The schooners Argonaut, Orient, Tressie, Webfoot and Tiernan are now loading there for southern ports.

A deed of trust from George O. Davis, Chester M. W. Smith and the London and San Francisco bank, was filed recently in the auditor's office at Seattle, granting to Thos. R. Tannatt the privilege of taking coal from what is known as the McCallister mine on Cedar river, for a period ending Sept. 21, 1882, with the privilege of purchasing the same for $75,000. Mr. McCallister (from whom the mine is named) sold his interest to Davis some years ago. The mine is located about six miles from Renton. The coal is lignite and is found in great abundance.

The Puget Sound Iron company has incorporated at Irondale for the purpose of purchasing and manufacturing iron, steel or other metals, to erect mills, machinery or other appliances for working ores or minerals. The company proposes to conduct its business in California, Washington territory and British Columbia. The capital stock is $500,000, divided into 50,000 shares of $10 each. All the stock has been subscribed to by the directors, G. W. Prescott, J. H. Redington, J. H. Paxton, D. B. Hinckley, C. H. Simpkins, C. T. A. Talbot and A. Chabot.

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN,

The Most Successful Physician on the Pacific Coast in the Treatment of ALL CHRONIC & DIFFICULT DISEASES.

DR. BRENAN WILL GUARANTEE TO CURE any form of Disease of the generative organs or private disease. He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the

FOLLIES OF YOUTH,

Such as SPERMATORRHEA, or SEMINAL WEAKNESS, or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY. Nearly two-thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring, either directly or indirectly, from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance and permit those diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organizations broken down and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.

Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances.

Lost manhood perfectly restored. Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Diseases, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint, and all Diseases of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder, he can cure without fail.

Consultation Free, and a list of printed questions sent to those living at a distance who cannot consult him personally. Enclose postage stamp for list.

Office—132 and 134 Third St., opposite Masonic Hall. Office Hours—From 10 to 12 A. M., 2 to 5 and 7 to 8 P. M. All letters of professional business must be addressed DR. PAUL M. BRENAN & CO., Portland, Oregon.

U. S. MARSHAL'S CITATION.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, DISTRICT OF Oregon—ss.—Whereas, a libel of information hath been filed in the district court of the United States of America for the district of Oregon, on the 30th day of November, 1881, by Mr. Rufus Mallory, United States attorney, against the following described merchandise, viz: Eleven cases and 2 kegs of brandy, 3 cases of gin, 8 kegs of whisky, 1 case of claret and 1 keg of rum, which by Mr. John S. Oskford, deputy collector of customs at the port of Wrangel, in the collection district of Alaska, on the 31st day of October, 1881, were seized as forfeited to the United States, for the reasons and causes in said libel mentioned, and praying the usual process and monition of the said court in that behalf be made, and that all persons interested in the said merchandise may be cited to answer the premises, and all due proceedings being had, that the said property above mentioned may, for the causes in said libel mentioned, be condemned as forfeited to the use of the United States, according to the form of the statute in such case made and provided; there are, in pursuance of the said monition, under the seal of the said court, to me directed and delivered, I do hereby give notice unto all persons claiming the said merchandise, or knowing or having anything to say why the same shall not be condemned as forfeited to the use of the United States, pursuant to the prayer of said libel of information, that they be and appear before the said district court, at the city of Portland, in said district, on Monday, the 2d day of January, 1882, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, if the same shall be a day of jurisdiction, otherwise on the next day of jurisdiction thereafter, then and there to interpose a claim for the same and to make their allegations in that behalf.

Dated at Portland, in said District, this 3d day of December, 1881.

EDWARDS. KEARNEY,
U. S. Marshal for the Dist. of Oregon.
